- Yes, to pursuing purity in what you watch, see, hear, listen to, and experience in life, always.
- Yes, to seeking forgiveness from God for our past mistakes and moving out of the stronghold of guilt.
- Yes, to agreeing with God's instruction to keep the marriage bed pure, and everything else He says to do.
- Yes, to embracing God's forgiveness when we stumble and go off-course.
- Yes, to cultivating healthy, God-honoring relationships with the opposite sex.
- Yes, to defining what it means to truly love someone in action and not just feelings, according to 1 Corinthians 13.
- Yes, to becoming an Ephesians 5 woman prepared to respect an Ephesians 5 man and an Ephesians 5 man prepared to love an Ephesians 5 woman.
- Yes, to engaging in conversations not only about the truth but also about what they're feeling and what they're wondering.
- Yes, to walking alongside our mature teens and twenty-somethings as they choose to date, guiding them and challenging them, setting boundaries and casting vision.
- And, no, to turning sex into a rule to keep or break, and purity into a mission that only happens before marriage.
